I have a Canon PIXMA ip5200 that was less than 6 months old and used very little. Canon service said to either take to service center or have a refurbished unit sent. I opted for the refurb. While waiting for the refurb unit, I tried the suggestioin of simply moving the cartridge back and forth a few times. Fixed it!

I have a Pixma MP830 with very little use that is totally dead. It won't power on and nothing appears to light up or attempt to show any signs of life. Power supply was tested and even changed out with a properly functioning replacement with no success. There is no Canon service in my area and what there is, is quite far away.
